OLD LAW REVIVED

MARION COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SO-CIETY AFTER MONEY.

An Effort to Make the Gentry Show Amenable to the Law-Gentry Refuses to Pay.

An effort on the part of the Marion County Agricultural Society to collect from H. B. Gentry, the proprietor of the dog and pony show, a license fee for each day he gives a performance in this city, and Mr. Gentry's refusal to oblige the agent of the agricultural society has caused the 100-Yard dash: Lieblee first, Hahn second, city and county officials to put in a large portion of their time during the last few days in hunting up the law bearing on the

It seems that in 1852, contemporaneous with the adoption of the new state Constitution, a law was enacted requiring a license of not less than $5 nor more than $25 for each performance for any person "to exhibit for pay any caravan, circus, rope or wire dancing, legerdemain, ventriloquism, puppet show, concert, theatrical performance, or any other exhibition of whatever name or description." The law further provides that the money arising from the exhibitions mentioned should be paid over by the county treasurer to the agricultural society of the county where the money had been colcounty agricultural society then the money was to be paid into the county treasury. For some reason the law, as passed in 1852, was amended in and unfortunately for the agricultural societies, the legislators drafting the amendment forgot to set out certain things in the title of the new law which were contained in the body of the act. In enumerating the various exhibitions which would be required to pay a license the title of the act only set out that "caravan, circus, rope or wire dancing, legerdemain, etc.," were taxable, nothing being mentioned in the title about "ventriloquism, puppet show, concert, theatrical performance, or any other exhibition of whatever name or description." Under the law of Indiana the title of the act must specifically mention every thing to be effected in the body of the act, otherwise the law as to that part contained in the body of the act, which is not mentioned in the title, is null and void. As Mr. Gentry could not be caught under the phrase, "or any other exhibition of whatever name or description," the only question for the officials to solve was whether he would be subject to a license as the owner of a circus. Webster's definition of a circus is "a circular inclosure for the exhibition of feats of horsemannot be compelled to pay the county a license. The question has frequently arisen as to what becomes of the money after it has been paid to the agricultural societies, and about the only solution of the mystery that has been offered is that it is distributed among the various members of the society products which are annually exhibited, in the case of the Marion County Agricultural 192 Society, at the Statehouse. It has been sug-145 gested that the agricultural societies are not to be blamed for trying to get all they can from the traveling exhibitions, for it is 171 just like "getting money from home." Mr. Gentry yesterday offered the society 196 $10, largely as a gift, but refused abso-163 lutely the demand made for $55.

THE JOURNEYMEN PLUMBERS

plumbers in yesterday morning's Journal,

the journeymen have prepared the following communication: "As the master plumbers have carded the papers with their side of the case we deem it our duty to let the public know our side of it, and the reasons for doing the same. In the first place, to answer their communication in the morning papers, they claim that Joseph Haslinger has a plumber working with a helper. He has not, but has a jobber, recognized by the Journeymen's Association. We have also members working for the firms of J. S. Farrell & Co., George W. Very Old and Very Young Couples | Keyser, Larkin & Co., and Thomas Barker, and all working without helpers. That the public may not be misled by the communications in the papers we wish to state our There were but three marriage licenses reasons for this that the journeymen Three favorites scored at Oakland. Where will he go? is the next question. He will find the same conditions staring him in the face wherever he goes. Now, we feel it an act of charity to counsel young men against starting in anything that will be of no benefit to them in the future. The masters claim that they will have to send two journeymen on the same job. This we wish to deny, as there are several shops in the city that have had no helpers for three or four years and have not had to do this as yet. Now in these same shops the men were ordered to take out helpers furnished from other shops last Tuesday. All we ask is that we not be compelled to have a boy tagging at our heels, When it is necessary to have help, a boy cr a laborer, whichever the master chooses, may be furnished, without objection from that this has been done in all the large cities and is working satisfactorily to the public and all concerned. The journeyman is the only one that has any right to object to this, as it will make his work heavier and harder, and if we are willing to shoulder our tools and carry a pot and furnace without a helper we can see no reason for complaint from the public."
